Does your company have instances where products must be assembled? Most companies outsource a great deal of this type of work because they do not have the capabilities to package many items internally. In addition, the cost structure of contract assembly companies makes outside packaging attractive. Even if contract manufacturers produce your primary product, you will find that their cost for assembly can be extremely high compared to specialized assembly companies.

Some other reasons for using a contract assembler include, physical space restrictions, no need to hire personnel, need for quick turnover and high-speed production, lack of internal expertise, seasonal or sporadic production requirements, specific control issues, timing, proximity to packaging components, and proximity to delivery locations.

Telmark Packaging Corporation can handle all of your assembly requirements. We are dedicated to a high-quality, competitive pricing and rapid response. Our staff is well trained to properly assess your project needs, to respond quickly with pricing and availability, and to get the order processed and produced without obstacles. We are committed to take the problems off your desk.

Telmark has tremendous capacity to package a wide array of items. Our services include wrapping, bagging, shrink-wrapping, labeling, boxing, collating, sorting, re-work, inspection, blister packaging, clam shell packaging, display assembly, promotional kits, gift baskets, hot & cold melt applications, and tip-on. These are only portion of the many services that we provide.
